

ABSTRACT

Headgear such as in the form of a baseball cap, visor, or headband, respectively, having electronic components concealed therein for performing electrical functions. Whereby the headgear when combined with such electronics provides a hat that can be used as either, a cell phone, a calculator, a computer, a palm pilot, or the like, and/or a combination there from. Also, the noted electronics can be housed within a removable container so as to allow the user to easily remove the electronics for washing and/or allowing the user to interchange the electronics between different types of headgear.